

MOVING ON...

Sandhill Crane Migration

These amazing birds travel north in the spring to breed and south in the fall to weather the winter in warmer climates.

red feathers on top of head

The unique rattling call of these birds can be heard from as far as 2 miles away.

Every year a few thousand Sandhill Cranes gather in Creamer's Field in late August to fuel up on plants, gains and small animals for their journey south.

