Cherry blossoms attract not only humans but animals too. Somei-yoshino is one of the most popular cherry in Japan.

The Japanese White-eyes is a small bird flitting about among the flowers to drink nectar in early spring. Its wings are moss green and belly is grey. As distinct feature of this bird, there is the white circle around its eyes.

Short-tailed Blue and Asian Swallow tail are butterflies can be observed from March to October in Japan.

A male Short-tailed Blue has blue on its upper side wings and a female has dark brown. Both of them have white with black spots and 2 to 3 orange marks on the edge of underside wings

Asian Swallow tails have cream with black stripes on their wings. There are orange and blue spots on the edge of their back wings.
