

Astronauts will use robots to help them do important science experiments and to learn more about Mars.