

Did you know? The Japanese Nanakusa Festival dates back to the 7th century. Historically, seven plants, believed to have medicinal value, were served to the Emperor: shepherd's purse, chickweed, parsley, cottonweed, radish, hotoke-no-za and aona.