

The Mule Deer gets its name from their large ears that always seem to be moving. Mule Deer do not run like other animals but “bounce” up to 24 feet at a time with all four feet coming down together. They can travel at speeds up to 24 miles per hour for short distances like this. The Blacktail deer is a subspecies of the Mule Deer.

