

The King did not want them to leave so he closed the ports.