

Whitetail Deer are the most abundant large mammal in North America. In the late 1800's they numbered less than 500,000. Thanks to the efforts of hunters, conservationists and wildlife biologists their numbers are now estimated as high as 36,000,000. The whitetail deer has been known to run up to 40 miles per hour and can jump 30 feet in one bound.
