

Paul traveled to many parts of the Roman world to teach and help start churches. Then he would have to leave to go to a new town, but he would write letters to the churches to answer their questions and encourage them to keep following Jesus.

