

Alexander Hamilton was one of the leaders of the thirteen states who met in Philadelphia to form a new national government.