

Canyonlands National Park, Utah. This is a wilderness of over 337,000 acres of rocky terrain, a geological wonderland in the heart of the Colorado Plateau. The park, founded in 1964, is pierced by the canyons of the Colorado and the Green rivers. Prehistoric Native American rock art and ruins may be seen here on guided tours by car, horseback, motorboat or canoe.