

11. Nieuport 11 "Bébé," 1915. This little airplane, originally designed for racing, made its fighting debut with British and French pilots in 1915. Its maneuverability made it a match for German planes, and it was the first plane flown by the American ace Edward Rickenbacker. The aircraft was colored light blue throughout with brown struts. It had French insignia and tail colors.