

One day she ran far from home chasing butterflies and paying no attention to where she was going until she came to a little house.