

In early America clothes were washed in nearby streams.