

2. A villa in the Pointed (Gothic Revival) style, Albany, New York, c.1840. This design is by A. J. Davis (1803-92), a chief promoter of the Picturesque aesthetic early in the nineteenth century, promulgator of both the Greek and Gothic Revival styles, mentor of A. J. Downing, and co-founder of America's first professional architectural firm.