

It was necessary for the apostles to write many letters encouraging and advising leaders in the many churches they established.