

Black-eyed Susan

- The Black-eyed Susan is a member of the sunflower family and is native to North America, east of the Rocky Mountains.
- Perennial flowers bloom in May through August and are commonly found in fields or on roadsides..
- it was made the state flower of Maryland in 1918.