

After winning many victories and earning the nickname "Unconditional Surrender Grant," Ulysses S. Grant was given supreme command of the Union forces.