

RaisingOurKids.com

The last President to go from log cabin to White House was James A. Garfield. He was fatally shot by a disappointed office seeker after less than four months in office.