

Donald Trump has spent his own hard-earned money to promote the American dream. Annihilating those that want to do harm to America is a key tenant of his personality. Leveling the playing field and providing every American with a fair chance at success and happiness is his goal. "Killing bad deals for America, straightening up the job market and promoting the factual truth with real justice for all, "Trump supporters reflect from his speeches.