

Icing –This infraction occurs when a player shoots the puck across at least two red lines and the puck remains untouched. When icing occurs, a linesman stops play. Play is resumed with a faceoff in the defending zone of the team that committed the infraction. In the NHL, an opposing player must touch the puck first before icing is called. International hockey uses “no touch” icing. The play is whistled down as soon as the puck crosses the goal line.