

Because of his outstanding military skill and bravery during the War between the States, General Grant was put in command of the Union Armies by President Lincoln.