

Western Meadowlark

- The Western Meadowlark prefers dry grasslands where bird enthusiasts can easily learn to identify their complex songs.
- Western Meadowlarks nest on the ground, laying an average of 5 white eggs. The eggs have brown and lavender spots on the wider end.
- Adopted as Oregon's state bird in 1927.