ANDREW JACKSON

Unlike earlier Presidents, Andrew Jackson was born in poverty on the frontier of Carolina. He proclaimed the equality of mankind in word and deed, which made him extremely popular and earned him the title of "The People's President."