

In Japanese Shinto, Inari is the natural spirit of fertility, rice, agriculture and foxes. Inari's kitsune (spirit foxes) are pure white and act as his messengers. Kitsune grow an extra tail each 100 years – the most powerful have nine tails.