

Embroidery

Traditional Hungarian embroidery decorated folk costumes, table linens, bookmarks, doilies and bed covers. It typically depicts colorful flowers and dates back to the middle ages when girls learned to embroider at a very young age.