

"The Star-Spangled Banner"

A prisoner on a British vessel watched the night-long attack on Fort McHenry. "By the dawn's early light" he saw that the American flag still was flying, so young Francis Scott Key, the prisoner, wrote the national anthem.